INGRAM MICRO EUROPE NAMES NEW VICE PRESIDENT HUMAN RESOURCES & SERVICES

BRUSSELS (Belgium) – May 14, 2007 – Ingram Micro Europe, a division of Ingram Micro Inc. (NYSE:IM), the largest global technology distributor today announces the appointment of Thomas P. Kraabel to the position of Vice President, Human Resources & Services for Europe, as of May 1, 2007. Relocating from Singapore, Tom is based in Brussels at the headquarters of the company's European division.

In this role, Kraabel is responsible for all aspects of Human Resources in Europe as well as Six Sigma and Corporate Communications. This includes the strategic direction of the Human Resources department in Europe, closely working with the regional leadership team and the company's 15 European subsidiaries as well as overseeing the region's staffing and talent management and the design and execution of training programmes for Ingram Micro associates throughout Europe. Kraabel reports directly to Hans Koppen, Executive Vice President and President Ingram Micro Europe with dotted line responsibilities to Matthew A. Sauer, Senior Vice President of Human Resources Worldwide.

Kraabel joins the European team after having served as Senior Human Resources Director for Ingram Micro Asia Pacific since 2004. While there, he was responsible for implementing the region's human resources strategy, which included leading the human resources aspect of Ingram Micro's 2004 acquisition of Tech Pacific, then Ingram Micro's largest competitor in Asia Pacific.

Commenting on the appointment, Hans Koppen said: "I am very happy to welcome Tom to our European region. Our associates are our most important asset and we want to recruit, develop and retain the best-in-class people at Ingram Micro. Tom is a testimony to this, having served at Ingram Asia Pacific where he demonstrated exceptional leadership and company insight. With his in-depth knowledge of Ingram Micro and true international background, I am confident that Tom will contribute successfully to the further development of the human resources in our European region".

Prior to joining Ingram Micro, Kraabel served as a Director of Human Resources at Honeywell International, and its predecessor AlliedSignal, in the United States and the Asia Pacific region. He also has worked for United Parcel Service, The Fisher Group Companies and Fisher Technologies in a variety of operations, customer support, marketing and sales roles. He served with the United States Marine Corps as an aviation radar technician and instructor.

Kraabel holds a Bachelor's degree in business management from Luther College and a Master's degree in human resources and industrial relations from the University of Minnesota's Carlson School of Business.
